The Brothers.

We are but two—the others sleep.

Through death's untrodden night;

We are but two—O, let us keep

The link that binds us bright.

Heart leaps to heart, the sacred flood

That warms us is the same;

That good old man—his honest blood

Alike we fondly claim.

We in one mother's arms were locked,

Long be her love repaid;

In the same cradle we were rocked,

Round the same hearth we played.

Our boyish sports were all the same,

Each little joy and woe;

Let manhood keep alive the flame,

Lit up so long ago.

We are but two—be that the band

To hold us till we die;

Shoulder to shoulder let us stand

Till side by side we lie.

CHARLES SPRAGUE.

Every Heart Knows Its Own Bitterness.

BY MRS. M. A. KIDDER.

Oh, heart, go out of your hiding-place,

And wander where you will.

Through the city and through the town,

Over the dale and hill—

Over the sea with its thousand isles,

Over the river—go.

In quest of a single human soul

That never hath "known a woe."

You may enter the palace of the king—

The poor man's humble cot—

The place where great wealth beautifies,

And where it blossoms not;

But, should you travel for long, long years,

Till centuries had flown,

In search of mortal sorrow-proof,

You'd come back, heart, alone!

Oh, hands, that have too much work to do!

And weary of your toil,

That have changed with the tide of hands,

Fair hands, "too white to soil,"

Work on! for you have promise sweet

To the faithful toilers given,

As you sow good seed along the way

From earth to the gate of heaven.

Oh, feet, that are climbing the up-hill road,

On tempted out of the narrow way

Into the heavy laden

Climb on with the aid of your trusty staff—

Up, upward toward the sun—

For the goal you seek is just in sight,

And the bright crown almost won!

David Matson, the Lost Man.

BY JOHN G. WHITTIER.

Who of my young readers have not

Read the sorrowful story of Enoch Arden,

So sweetly and simply told by the great

English poet? It is the story of a man

Who went to sea, leaving behind a sweet

Young wife and little daughter. He was Cast away on a desert island, where he Remained several years, when he was discovered and taken off by a passing vessel.

Coming back to his native town,

He found his wife married to an old playmate—a good man, rich and honored,

With whom she was living happily. The Poor man, unwilling to cause her pain

And perplexity, resolved not to make himself known to her, and lived and died alone. The poem has reminded me of a very similar story of a New England neighborhood, which I have often heard, and which I will try to tell, not in poetry, but in my own poor prose. I can assure my readers that, in its main particulars, it is a true tale.

One bright summer morning more than

Jews in Europe.

In the course of an article upon the condition of the Jews in Eastern Europe,

the Republique Francaise quotes some interesting statistics as to their numbers, both there and in other countries. From these statistics it appears that Jerusalem does not contain more than eight or nine thousand, and that the Jews are rather more numerous in North Africa than they are in Judea. There are scarcely any

Jews in Italy or Spain, and in Great Britain they do not form more than one in a thousand of the inhabitants. In France they are in the proportion of four to a thousand of the whole population, but this comparatively high proportion is due to the fact that the Jews are very numerous in the departments on the German frontier.

In the annexed provinces of Alsace-

Lorraine the Jews number 40,228 out of a total population of a million and a half,

while in Switzerland there are only

7,087 Jews to a total population of more than two million and a half. Germany, including the Polish provinces and Alsace-Lorraine, contains no more than 513,

160 Jews; while in Austria they number

1,376,000, or 3.8 per centum of the whole population.

The six or three million inhabitants of Russia Europe comprise 1,829,100 Jews, who, until the recent decree authorizing them to reside in any part of the empire, were confined to certain districts in ancient provinces—Poland, and more than a million and a half of the Russian Jews reside in the Polish provinces, and as the inhabitants of those provinces number but 12,118,085, they form more than eleven per centum of the whole population, outnumbering the Poles, properly so called, by nearly half a million. The Jews are still more numerous proportionately in the kingdom of Poland itself,

there being 783,000, or thirty-eight per cent, of a total population of 2,067,071.

Berlin 27,565, out of 699,981; and St.

Petersburg only 2,613, out of 1,229,198.

While in Western Europe there were 72,776

Jews in a total population of 223,906. Their numbers have increased since, and they now represent 35.9 per centum of the whole population.

Talleyrand's Opinion of Hamilton.

Talleyrand, the great French diplomatist, visited the United States in 1794. He made the acquaintance of our distinguished statesman, and the one who made the strongest impression upon him was Alexander Hamilton. Talking with Mr.

George Ticknor, of Boston, in 1876,

Talleyrand said that he had never newly all the marked men of his time, but that he had never known one in the whole equal to Hamilton. Mr. Ticknor, as much gratified as he was surprised at the praise paid for Napoleon, Charles James

Fox, and Alexander Hamilton.

But what most excited Talleyrand's wonder was that Hamilton, having been secretary of the treasury, should be so powerful. He said, "I have heard of you as a man of great power, but I have not known you. I have heard of you as a man of great power, but I have not

known you. I have heard of you as a man of great power, but I have not

known you. I have heard of you as a man of great power, but I have not

Evenings at Home.

I remember in our seminary days our lady principal began a little talk to us,

one morning, in this way:

"You ladies, I am going to make you all clairvoyants. In that state you know you see things present to the eye.

Now, then, you are all back in your rooms; look at your study tables,

books, papers, pens and ink in place!

See your wash-stand, do you see un-empted bowls? Now look up to the top of your stove-pipe, do you clairvoyant's eyes see any dust? Take a look under the bed, are there any rolls of lint? Open your closet doors, do dresses and hats

and cloaks hang on their hooks; are boots and rubbers set up clean and tidy; are the shelves in order? Shut your closets and look again well around the room. It looks as if you saw nothing, when the chapel bell struck!"

Now, dear young folks, as we gather around the evening lamp, suppose I make you clairvoyants and ask you the same questions. How did you leave your rooms this morning? How have they been through the day, and how do you expect to find them when you retire tonight? Carpets swept, chairs stand and angle in order, curtains evenly looped, or evenly rolled, and bed so smooth and even that it will seem good to lie down on it? Remember, one's room from day to day tells the character of its occupant.

"Well," say the boys, "that does very well for the girls. The girls take care of my room; I wish they would be as nice as that." Boys, did you ever think how

National Democratic Nominations.

FOR PRESIDENT,
Samuel J. Tilden,
OF NEW YORK.

FOR VICE PRESIDENT,
Thos. A. Hendricks,
OF INDIANA.

FOR PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS.
S. M. TAYLOR, JOSEPH BUDY,
BARCLAY HENLEY, FRANK GUMMEL,
J. C. SHORS, J. S. HAGER.

FOR CONGRESSMAN.
(Third District.)
J. H. LUTTRELL,
OF SONOMA COUNTY.

Said James Gillespie Blaine to D. W. Munn, of Chicago: "I have no influence with the present Administration. No man has who is not a thief by instinct."

Hon. A. A. Sargent, who leaves the service of the State of California as U. S. Senator, on the 4th March next, will give the bloody shirt a flatter sometime in the coming week.

Senator Booth in his Indiana speech said the trouble in electing Hayes would be found in the desire of the masses for a change. And the Senator forgot himself and told the truth.

Fresno sports one of the largest Tilden Clubs in the State. In addition to a long list of Democrats, the roll of members contains the names of seventy-two Independents, and sixteen Republicans.

The colored people of Alabama are advancing in political knowledge. It is no use any longer to tell them that the Democrats want to regain power for the purpose of getting their bodies to try the fat out and make candles of it.

The New York Herald remarks: "It would be a curious story to learn how many of these Northern wags who went to the South and played the devil with the blacks and the whites, have wound up their brilliant careers in the penitentiaries of the nation."

The Yolo Mail says: "A vote was recently taken in the Yolo County Jail, and the nine inmates all voted for Tilden." As Yolo is Democratic, adds the Dixon Tribune, this is additional evidence that the Democrats send their thieves to jail, while Republican thieves are made Senators and Ministers abroad.

Tilden clubs are rapidly increasing in number among the colored people in the South. The Vicksburg Herald reports several in that section of Mississippi, and we hear of them even in South Carolina. At the Democratic ratification meeting in Anderson, S. C., on the 2nd instant, it is estimated that 1,000 colored men were present.

The Louisville Courier Journal says: "Were the angel Gabriel to come down and announce the end of all corruption, the New York Times would be out with a supplement showing that he was one of the rebel angels; that he didn't come by his trumpet honestly, and that the resurrection ought to be postponed." And the Sacramento Record-Union would say Amen, so be it.

The present weather, says the Ball County, (Mo.) Record, seems to indicate that all nature is prepared to accommodate defeated candidates. The terrible rains with which we have been visited have rendered Salt River navigable, and no trouble will be experienced by the disconsolate in ploughing through that murky stream.

The mercenary blatherer, Tom Fitch, has been hired by the Radicals to canvass California for Hayes and Wheeler, and the White Pine News thus comments on the fact: "Four years ago, he was stumping for the Presidential nominees of the Democratic Party. The man's silver tongue is his only stock in trade, and his only motto is sold to whatever party makes the best bid for it."

Radical Civil Service Reform funds another illustration in the case of Arthur Bingham, who is now under bonds to appear for trial for embezzling $27,000 while State Treasurer of Alabama, with several other indictments hanging over him, and has just been appointed Postmaster at Mobile by President Grant! "Give us Victory and we will give you Reform," cries our milk and water contemporary of the Yolo Mail.

Civil Service Reform, from the Republican standpoint, was faithfully illustrated in St. Louis, a few days ago, when the brother of the President of the United States was translated to a police station in a hand-cart, having been found lying in a vacant lot in a condition of beastly intoxication. His pockets were filled with government contracts and post-traderhip appointments in blank, ready to be filled out in the name of the highest bidder.

A terrific state of things exists in Mexico, Missouri. The negroes in that neighborhood are committing atrocious outrages upon the white people and a reign of terror exists. But these are only negro outrages upon whites, and of course no U. S. troops would respond to a call for aid, because the U. S. Marshal would not see any cause even to "suspect" a threatened breach of the peace! Soldiers are not used to protect white people in the South, but simply to prevent them from voting for Tilden and Hendricks.

PETTIFOGGING.

The Sacramento Record-Union, in its usual pettifogging style, states as fact, under the caption of "Specimen Democratic Retrenchment," that thousands of crippled Union soldiers have been barred out of their claims for commutation by the Democratic House of Representatives, and then it adds this specimen of Radical pettifoggery:

"Ten thousand wooden legs and arms are thus preserved to the treasury, and the battered veterans who expected to be supplied with the means of locomotion may rail as they please, for the probabilities are that they will not now be able to go to the polls and vote for Hayes and Wheeler."

Just think of the estimate the foreigner who runs that subsidized sheet puts upon intelligence of American soldiers, who having been crippled in their country's service in years gone by, can't now go to the polls and vote for Hayes and Wheeler because they are not furnished with a new wooden arm or a new wooden leg, as the case may be! But suppose the Democratic House of Representatives had passed a law to furnish crippled Union soldiers with new wooden arms or legs that they might go to the polls and vote for Tilden and Hendricks. What then? Why from the mouth of every Radical stump orator would issue denunciations of the infamous act, and the editor of the Record-Union would fairly froth at the mouth in a fit of "virtuous" indignation. If we did not despise such mean pettifoggery, we might ask how these soldiers locomote now, and how have they so done in years past? And how the want of a wooden arm, for instance, will keep a soldier from the polls? But if such an expenditure is deemed necessary, would it be well for the editor to suggest that a portion of the money now being poured out like water in the employment of orators of the Gov. Woods stripe, who are perambulating the country and disgusting the honest portion of the party with their flannings of the "bloody shirt," be used to provide means for bringing the crippled Union soldiers to the polls, or at least, the few who will vote for Hayes. But the dastardly fling at the Democratic House of Representatives is worthy the source from which it emanates. That editor knows as well as we do that every attempt at reducing the expenses of government in the interest of an overburdened tax-paying people, by the Democratic House of Representatives, met with unflinching opposition in the Republican Senate, but it would not suit the times to even hint at the truth, this article not finding a place in the Radical programme of this campaign.

For some time past, says the Humboldt Standard, the editor of the Signal has been strenuously working against the re-election of the Hon. J. K. Luttrell, and to make the defeat doubly sure, he gives vent to the following beautiful eulogy on the Republican candidate:

Hon. Joseph McKenna was elected to the last Legislature by the Republicans of Sonoma county. His age is about 33 years; residence, Suisun City; nativity, Philadelphia; married, and a lawyer. With such a man against him, we can hardly see how the election of Mr. Luttrell can be hoped for by his most sanguine friends.

If this graphic description of the claims of McKenna for the position of Congressman for this district don't enthuse the Radicals of Eureka sufficiently to start a McKenna Club, their hearts must be as cold as an iceberg.

Here's what Gov. John A. Dix, said in public when handing the gubernatorial office over to his successor, Samuel J. Tilden, in 1873:

While a material progress has been made during the last years in the correction of abuses, much remains to be done, and the distinguished part you have borne in the municipal reform in the city of New York, gives assurance that under your auspices the great interests of the State will be vigilantly guarded. I tender you my sincere wish that your labors in the cause of good government may be successful here as they have been elsewhere, and that your administration may redound to your honor, and to the lasting prosperity of the people of the whole State.

And now this same John A. Dix is one of the pack of political hounds, who are putting forth their puny efforts to traduce the man who stands as high above them in character as old George Washington above Benedict Arnold.

On Saturday night last, a Grand Democratic Mass Meeting was held at Cleveland, Ohio. The meeting was brilliantly illuminated and the procession numbered about 5,000 torches, 600 horsemen and several bands of music. The same evening the largest Democratic mass meeting of the campaign was held at Dayton, Ohio. It was addressed by Gen. Franz Sigel and Hon. Frederick Hecker. The Radicals are shaky about these days in Ohio.

Which of the two, Tilden or Hayes, have cheated the government most in the matter of income tax is the great question agitating the Radical press of the day. Mr. Tilden having cleared his skirts, Mr. Hayes must now take the stand and explain, or in the words of the Record-Union as applied to Mr. Tilden "no such man should be permitted to occupy the Presidential chair."

Mr. Sargent advises the Democrats to bury the "bloody shirt." This is about the coolest piece of Senatorial advice that has ever emanated from Mr. Sargent. But the Democracy will take his advice, and not only bury the shirt but those who have been snatching it, in a political grave in the early days of November.

Yellow fever is raging fearfully in some of the Southern States, and great destitution exists. In Brunswick, Georgia, one half the population is down with it, and the same is the case in other places. Relief is being forwarded to the destitute for in the principal cities East.

Lightning seems to have struck the Radical press. Not a word on Tilden's income tax, and as silent as the grave on Hayes' income tax record!

The Government has saved a million of dollars—sunstroke killed an Indian in New York.

GENERAL ITEMS.

The Sandwich Island Legislature has passed a law forbidding the further importation of Chinese to the Island. John was monopolizing all the business.

The ship Brown Bros., now loading wheat at Valjejo for Havre, 1500 tons burden, on her voyage from Boston for San Francisco, had a crew of 24 sailors, and among them were representatives of seven different nations.

Six shalloons of the celebrated Clyde-built breed arrived at Chicago, from Scotland on Tuesday last. One of them, named Bollinger, is four years old and has received a pension from the English government of £150 a year. The telegraph is responsible for this statement, which seems to us very much like a fish story.

A terrible case of absence of mind is recorded of a doctor, calling on a gentleman who had been some time ailing, put a fee into the patient's hands and himself took the medicine which he had prepared for the sick man; he was not made sensible of his error till he found himself getting ill, and the patient growing better.

Those three Chinamen who took a watermelon home and cooked it say that they feel able to worry along on rice a short time longer without fooling with any more new-fangled arrangements in the vegetable line.

"You must have lived here a long time," said an Englishman to an Oregon pioneer. "Yes, sir, I have. Do you see that mountain? Well, when I came that mountain was a hole in the ground."

The National debt reduced to one dollar greenbacks, and pasted end to end would reach ninety-one thousand four hundred and thirty-seven miles beyond the moon.

The N. Y. Herald says: A tramp was recently met by a hospitable farmer in Westchester, N. Y., who asked him if he wanted work. "No," replied the tramp; "what I want is a bloody shirt and plenty of money."

James Ross, of Missouri, father of H. A. Ross, of Dixon, is the oldest Free Mason, in the United States. He is 98 years old, and has been an active Mason for 75 years.

VACAVILLE, Sept. 27, 1876.
EDITOR ADVOCATE: Last Thursday a fire occurred in Broughton's stable field, which destroyed R. C. Marshall's and A. C. Hawkins' stable fields, burning up the fences along the graveyard and damaging the tombstones very badly. Business is not very lively, though several sales of wool have been made the past few days. The grain yard and warehouse are pretty near all right, which gives a nice aspect to our visitors. The pigeon shooting match which came off last Thursday was a failure. T. Moore sold out his grocery store to H. H. Lewis. Joseph Bingham, of San Francisco, returned Sunday evening from his wedding trip. Weather very warm for the past few days.
TWO WOMANS.

Old Timothy Hay Phelps at a Radical meeting at San Francisco, the other night, uttered this sentiment:

Whatever errors the Republican party may have made were errors of the head rather than of the heart. These were the result of a great, broad impulse of generosity. There, Timothy, you can take our hat after that. The operations of Belknap in post-traderhip frauds of Babcock in whiskey ring frauds and safe-burglary, the result of "a great, broad impulse of generosity!" not to mention a thousand similar worthies of the Radical stripe.
